They Put An End To It.

Charles Sable, 30 Cook St., Rochester, N. Y., says he recommends Foley Kidney Pills at every opportunity because they gave him prompt relief from a bad case of kidney trouble that had long bothered him. Such a recommendation, coming from Mr. Sable, is direct and convincing evidence of the great curative qualities of Foley Kidney Pills. The genuine Foley Kidney Pills are never sold in bulk, but put up in sealed bottles, enclosed in a yellow car ton. Ask for Foley Kidney Pills. Refuse substitutes. W. H. Windrow.

No. 10189.

Treasury Department.

OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

Washington, D. C., May 7, 1912. WHEREAS, by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that "THE LA COSTE NATIONAL BANK" in the town of La Coste, in the County of Medina and the State of Texas, has complied with all the provisions of the Statutes of the United States, required to be complied with before an association shall be authorized to commence the business of banking;

Now THEREFORE I, Thomas P. Kane, Deputy and Acting Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "THE LA COSTE NATIONAL BANK" in the town of La Coste, in the County of Medina and State of Texas, is authorized to commence the business of banking as provided in Section fifty one hundred and sixty nine of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this seventh day of May, 1912. T. P. KANE, Deputy and Acting Comptroller of the Currency.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's catarrh cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family pills for constipation.

Realization.

When winter brought it's weary round Of fires and drifting snow He yearned for summer's dreamy days And hammocks swinging low. But now the lovely June is here With birds and blossoms gay, So he proceeds to cut the grass, oil the automobile, freeze icecream paint screens, pull weeds, sprinkle the yard, plant vines, and in sundry and diverse idle pleasures of a similar innocuous character contrives To dream the hours away! —June Lippincott's.

Man Coughs and Breaks Rib.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few teaspoonsful ends a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs, expels stubborn colds or heals weak sore lungs. "I feel sure it's a God send to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton, Columbia, Mo., "for I believe I would have consumption today, if I had not used this remedy." It's guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle or 50-cent or $1.00 size at W. H. Windrow's.

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Honegger came out from San Antonio yesterday on a visit. They went up to the J. W. Daventport ranch to spend a few days with Mrs. Honegger's parents. Mr. Honegger says he is getting along very nicely with his law practice. He will return to the city in a few days but Mrs. Honegger will stay here for a week or two. —Sabinal Sentinel.

Mrs. Lela Love, wife of Wiley Love, a farmer living near Covena, Ga., says: "I have taken Foley's Kidney Pills and find them to be all you claim for them. They gave me almost instant relief when my kidneys were sluggish and inactive. I cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles." Foley Kidney Pills are as carefully made and as scientifically compounded as any medicine your home doctor can give you. They act directly on the kidneys and bladder. W. H. Windrow.

Ships With Special Facilities for Protection of Passengers.

From information received from the Southern Pacific Company operating the Steamship Line between New York and New Orleans, we learn that passengers using that line need have no fears in case of accident. The life boat capacity of these ships has always been sufficient to accommodate all of the passengers and crew and the wireless equipment is such that the wireless room at all times, night and day, is in charge of an experienced operator. Notices are posted in all staterooms, public rooms and the steerage, showing the assignments of occupants to specific boats, and all life boats are conspicuously numbered. Fire and boat drills are held at each port as well as on the first day out and passengers are invited to take part in them. Stewards demonstrate how to attach life-belts to the body. It is said that these are not new rulings, but have been in force on these ships for several years.

Prohibition Election Called In This County.

In accordance with the election laws a prohibition election cannot be held sooner than two years after the last election was called. This time restriction is not recognized, however, by the people in recommending 'Hunt's Lightning Oil for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headaches, etc. For thirty odd years it has been acknowledged to be the best. Sold everywhere in 50c and 25c bottles.

Reverie: At Commencement.

My essay's abstruse,
But my gown does'nt fit!
I feel like a goose—
My essay's abstruse—
Ah me! What's the use
Of wisdom or wit?
My essay's abstruse—
But my gown doesn't fit!
—June Lippincott's

Helped To Keep Down Expenses

Mrs. J. E. Henry, Akron, Mich., tells how she did so: "I was bothered with my kidneys and had to go nearly double. I tried a sample of Foley Kidney Pills and they did me so much good that I bought a bottle, and they saved me a big doctor's bill." For weak back, backache, rheumatism, urinary and kidney troubles, use Foley Kidney Pills. They help quickly. W. H. Windrow.

By Other Names.

Well-to-do—Advertise.
A parting Word—Divorce.
A Hitch in the Proceedings—Marriage.
A Pawnee—One who Pawns Anything.
—June Lippincott's.

Sore Nipples.

Any mother who has had experience with this distressing ailment will be pleased to know that a cure may be effected by applying Chamberlain's Salve as soon as the child is done nursing. Wipe it off with a soft cloth before allowing the babe to nurse. Many trained nurses use this salve with best results. For Sale by all dealers.

No Humorist.

"What of his sense of humor?"
"Well, he has to see a joke twice before he sees it once."
—June Lippincott's.

Fell From Scaffolding.

Oklahoma City, Okla: Oscar A. Anderson of 2401 South Walker street fell from a scaffold, and though considerably sprained and bruised, is able to be about. He says Hunt's Lightning Oil took all the soreness away. It is also good for Headaches, Neuralgia, Rheumatism. All dealers sell in 25c and 50c bottles.

Some day—perhaps—the broken political promise will mean that the promiser's business word is at a discount.

This Is So.

We wish to state in as plain and vigorous way as words can express it that Hunt's Cure will positively, quickly and permanently cure any form of Itching Skin disease known. One box is guaranteed to cure. One application affords relief.

We have no authenticated record of a stained glass church window ever saving a man's soul.

Calomel Is Bad.

But Simmons' Liver Purifier is delightfully pleasant and its action is thorough. Constipation yields, biliousness goes. A trial convinces. (In yellow tin boxes only) Tried once, used always.

A lot of precious time is wasted in praying for things that are merely wanted.

It is worse than useless to take any medicines internally for muscular or chronic rheumatism. All that is needed is a free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. For sale by All Dealers.

Most faces are masques.

A Pleasing Miss.

I saw a pleasing miss to-day;
I gazed in breathless glee
To-day I saw a miss that I
Had always longed to see.
A mad excitement shook my frame
On seeing this neat miss
I felt a mighty thrill, and thought
I'd surely burst with bliss.
My frenzied joy could not be quelled;
My happiness would out:
Small wonder I should wave my hands
And sing and dance and shout.
I saw a pleasing miss to-day,
That set my heart aflame,
I saw the slagger miss the ball.
And the home team won the game.
—June Lippincott's.

Ends Hunt For Rich Girl.

Often the hunt for a rich wife ends when the man meets a woman that uses Electric Bitters. Her strong nerves tell in a bright brain and even temper. Her peach bloom complexion and ruby lips result from her pure blood; her bright eyes from firm, free muscles, all telling of the health and strength Electric Bitters give a woman, and the freedom from indigestion, backache, headache, fainting and dizzy spells they promote. Every where they are woman's favorite remedy if weak or ailing try them. 50c at W. H. Windrow's.

A penny makes as much noise as a five dollar gold piece when dropped on the contribution plate, but the recording angel makes entry by results, not by sound alone.

Rev. J. T. HORGER
Local Deacon, Methodist Church

Autobiography of Rev. J. T. Horger

I was born in Newton County, Texas, Oct. 9th, 1858, and was baptized in early childhood. At the age of 13 I was forgiven my sins and born of the spirit. At the age of 17 I joined the M. E. Church, South. At the age of 23 I was married to Elizabeth Walters of Polk Co. At Corrigan, Polk Co., Texas, during the spring and early summer of 1892 I was baptized with the Holy Ghost and fire, purifying and filling the heart with peace, divine love and holy power. I have been impressed from early childhood that I should preach the gospel, and at that time the call became so great that I began to spontaneously preach without a license, except a commission from above, and in Hondo 1899 I was licensed to exhort, and in the spring of 1901 I was licensed to preach and was ordained local deacon by Bishop Key, in 1909.

They Put An End To It.

Charles Sable, 30 Cook St., Rochester, N. Y., says he recommends Foley Kidney Pills at every opportunity because they gave him prompt relief from a bad case of kidney trouble that had long bothered him. Such a recommendation, coming from Mr. Sable, is direct and convincing evidence of the great curative qualities of Foley Kidney Pills. The genuine Foley Kidney Pills are never sold in bulk, but put up in sealed bottles, enclosed in a yellow car ton. Ask for Foley Kidney Pills. Refuse substitutes. W. H. Windrow.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's catarrh cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Realization.

When winter brought it's weary round Of fires and drifting snow
He yearned for summer's dreamy days
And hammocks swinging low.
But now the lovely June is here
With birds and blossoms gay,
So he proceeds to cut the grass, oil the automobile, freeze icecream paint screens, pull weeds, sprinkle the yard, plant vines, and in sundry and diverse idle pleasures of a similar innocuous character contrives

To dream the hours away!

Man Coughs and Breaks Rib.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few teaspoonfuls ends a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs, expels stubborn colds or heals weak sore lungs. "I feel sure it's a God send to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton, Columbia, Mo., "for I believe I would have consumption today, if I had not used this remedy." It's guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle or 50-cent or $1.00 size at W. H. Windrow's.

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Honegger came out from San Antonio yesterday on a visit. They went up to the J. W. Daventport ranch to spend a few days with Mrs. Honegger's parents. Mr. Honegger says he is getting along very nicely with his law practice. He will return to the city in a few days but Mrs. Honegger will stay here for a week or two.—Sabinal Sentinel.

Mrs. Lela Love, wife of Wiley Love, a farmer living near Covena, Ga., says: "I have taken Foley's Kidney Pills and find them to be all you claim for them. They gave me almost instant relief when my kidneys were sluggish and inactive. I cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles." Foley Kidney Pills are as carefully made and as scientifically compounded as any medicine your home doctor can give you. They act directly on the kidneys and bladder. W. H. Windrow.

Ships With Special Facilities for Protection of Passengers.

From information received from the Southern Pacific Company operating the Steamship Line between New York and New Orleans, we learn that passengers using that line need have no fears in case of accident. The life boat capacity of these ships has always been sufficient to accommodate all of the passengers and crew and the wireless equipment is such that the wireless room at all times, night and day, is in charge of an experienced operator. Notices are posted in all staterooms, public rooms and the steerage, showing the assignments of occupants to specific boats, and all life boats are conspicuously numbered. Fire and boat drills are held at each port as well as on the first day out and passengers are invited to take part in them. Stewards demonstrate how to attach life-belts to the body. It is said that these are not new rulings, but have been in force on these ships for several years.

Helped To Keep Down Expenses

Mrs. J. E. Henry, Akron, Mich., tells how she did so: "I was bothered with my kidneys and had to go nearly double. I tried a sample of Foley Kidney Pills and they did me so much good that I bought a bottle, and they saved me a big doctor's bill." For weak back, backache, rheumatism, urinary and kidney troubles, use Foley Kidney Pills. They help quickly. W. H. Windrow.

Fell From Scaffolding.

Oklahoma City, Okla: Oscar A. Anderson of 2401 South Walker street fell from a scaffold, and though considerably sprained and bruised, is able to be about. He says Hunt's Lightning Oil took all the soreness away. It is also good for Headaches, Neuralgia, Rheumatism. All dealers sell in 25c and 50c bottles.

Some day—perhaps—the broken political promise will mean that the promiser's business word is at a discount.

This Is So.

We wish to state in as plain and vigorous way as words can express it that Hunt's Cure will positively, quickly and permanently cure any form of Itching Skin disease known. One box is guaranteed to cure. One application affords relief.

We have no authenticated record of a stained glass church window ever saving a man's soul.

Calomel Is Bad.

But Simmons' Liver Purifier is delightfully pleasant and its action is thorough. Constipation yields, biliousness goes. A trial convinces. (in yellow tin boxes only) Tried once, used always.

A lot of precious time is wasted in praying for things that are merely wanted.

It is worse than useless to take any medicines internally for muscular or chronic rheumatism. All that is needed is a free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. For sale by All Dealers.

A Pleasing Miss.

I saw a pleasing miss to-day;
I gazed in breathless glee
To-day I saw a miss that I
Had always longed to see.
A mad excitement shook my frame
On seeing this neat miss
I felt a mighty thrill, and thought
I'd surely burst with bliss.
My frenzied joy could not be quelled;
My happiness would out:
Small wonder I should wave my hands
And sing and dance and shout.
I saw a pleasing miss to-day,
That set my heart aflame,
I saw the slinger miss the ball.
And the home team won the game.
—June Lippincott's.

Ends Hunt For Rich Girl.

Often the hunt for a rich wife ends when the man meets a woman that uses Electric Bitters. Her strong nerves tell in a bright brain and even temper. Her peach bloom complexion and ruby lips result from her pure blood; her bright eyes from firm, free muscles, all telling of the health and strength Electric Bitters give a woman, and the freedom from indigestion, backache, headache, fainting and dizzy spells they promote. Every where they are woman's favorite remedy if weak or ailing try them. 50c at W. H. Windrow's.

A penny makes as much noise as a five dollar gold piece when dropped on the contribution plate, but the recording angel makes entry by results, not by sound alone.

Rev. J. T. HORGER
Local Deacon, Methodist Church

Autobiography of Rev. J. T. Horger

I was born in Newton County, Texas, Oct. 9th, 1858, and was baptized in early childhood. At the age of 13 I was forgiven my sins and born of the spirit. At the age of 17 I joined the M. E. Church, South. At the age of 23 I was married to Elizabeth Walters of Polk Co. At Corrigan, Polk Co., Texas, during the spring and early summer of 1892 I was baptized with the Holy Ghost and fire, purifying and filling the heart with peace, divine love and holy power. I have been impressed from early childhood that I should preach the gospel, and at that time the call became so great that I began to spontaneously preach without a license, except a commission from above, and in Hondo 1899 I was licensed to exhort, and in the spring of 1901 I was licensed to preach and was ordained local deacon by Bishop Key, in 1909.

REV. J. T. HORGER.

THE MISSION OF THE CHURCH

The Church of God "That Christ has redeemed by his own blood," is limited in its powerful influence to bring the world to Christ only as the individual members of it by disobedience in not obeying the command given by our Lord.

The great mission of the church is to evangelize the world. This was the commission given by Christ when he said: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Many have heard the message, and some have gone, and multitudes of thousands of heathen are being brought to Jesus. And there are millions in heathendom. And each individual has a part in bringing them to Christ. Let us cast our bread upon the waters and it will be gathered many, many days hence.

For the field is white already to harvest. Let that reapeth receiveth wages. May every member of this church, receive a reward for having brought some one to Jesus.

Fraternally,

M. L. DARBY.

And Still Who's Hit?
 The last issue of the Uvalde Leader-News uses up about half of a nearly two column wall in protesting against the Anvil Herald's "declaring that WE and others of like faith, are a bunch of demagogues with the unholy purpose of fattening on the spoils of political warfare". The Leader-News takes itself altogether too seriously in assuming that we placed it in the category with "the demagogue who would revive the rancors and the passions of last summer's prohibition fight that he may, camp-follower-like, fatten on the spoils of the political war-fare." No one save itself could attach that much importance to it in the present contest; and if a second reading of our article will not convince it, its own declaration that "there isn't a public office or political preferment of any kind within the gift of the people or politicians that we would accept as a gift" should convince it that, like certain people of old, it has fled when no man pursued!

The fact is, the Leader-News in constituting itself defender of men who stand condemned by their own words and actions, is allowing its untenable role to get it into all sorts of absurdities and contradictions. Witness the two statements from the same article:-

Beginning the second paragraph it says:

"We are CONVINCED of the SINCERITY of Brother Davis, and his FREEDOM FROM SELFISH MOTIVES, in his anti convictions."

And in next to the last paragraph witness this:

"We object to jolly-considered state-ments [coming from the Anvil Herald, of course] reflecting on the motives of prohibitionists as a class, especially when the speaker or writer, if he would analyze his own beliefs DOESN'T BELIEVE HIS OWN CHARGE."

It would be interesting to know when to believe the Leader-News believes its own statements!

The Leader-News confesses that it has no hope of converting us to the prohibition view but merely set out to show that the question has two sides—a proposition we are happy to concede, but sorry to find our friend on the wrong side. However, we are more hopeful than it for we see it concedes that our side has defensible ground, and is, therefore, merely sore because our choice of language for expressing a palpable truth—one demonstrated by the attitude of the two candidates for Governor—did not suit its aesthetic taste. We know—and regret—that for the Leader-News it is another "disagreeable experience" calculated to "innoculate" it with some kind of a sentiment, but we trust it will not be such as would make it proud of that spirit that settled "at least one" question by "an appeal to arms" and the "licking to death" of nearly a million men and the destruction of billions of dollars of property. We still have hopes that the man who concedes a man's right to take a drink will at length concede his right to buy that drink before he could look with "pride" upon a repetition of Sherman's march to the sea and other edifying spectacles of like nature.

Maps of Medina Co., showing surveys, etc., for sale.

After a lengthy discussion of individual motives that do not appear to us germane to the present status of the discussion, the Leader-News drags in a still more lengthy discussion of the Standard Oil trust in order that "we can occupy common ground." In as much as we can, and do occupy the common ground that man has a moral right to take a drink of liquor, we see no necessity to seek new ground. However, if the Leader-News desires it, and thinks it must have it that "the next time Davis opens up on Standard Oil or one of its apostles" it can have grounds to "promptly call him a demagogue, a reviver of rancors and a fattener on political spoils," we cheerfully meet it on its chosen field. And we hope the Leader-News will catch the import of the comparison.

We cheerfully concede you the right to so denounce us when you find us—

1st. Conceding a man's right to use coal oil—build his fires, fill his lamps, etc.—and not daring to attempt to outlaw the use of oil; but 2nd, because some unfortunates burn their houses or blew up their lamps, or there may be some rascals selling oil, seeking to make it a crime for oil to be sold by any body to anybody; 3rd, by the mere toss of a ballot throw the thousands employed in producing and handling oil out of employment without redress, destroying the value of the thousands of dollars invested in the production and handling of oil and depriving its owners of this value without due process of law or any kind of compensation; and 4th, because this seems to be the popular thing to do and we are without any other visible merit to recommend us and for no fault of our opponent, save his conscientious opposition to such high-handed methods, we seek to use it for the over-throw of the Democratic precedent of a second term and slip into a public office!

It is neither here nor there that you are convinced of our sincerity or are jealous of your own. It is nothing as to the motives of the great body of prohibitionists—although it is the misfortune of many of them, like the Leader-News in this case, to imagine the malevolence of the evil ones is the concern of them all. It does not matter whether we are prompted by "partizan enthusiasm" or knowledge "of the motives of the prohibitionists." But it is a patent fact, made glaringly prominent by the attitude of the two candidates for governor, that the Leader-News is following the lead of "a demagogue who would revive the rancors and the passions of last summer's prohibition fight that he may, camp-follower-like, fatten on the spoils of the political warfare." If this "indicates warring faith in the weight and persuasiveness of our real argument" it also indicates our willingness to accept the conclusiveness of facts that are patent to all save those who having eyes will not see!

Yes, let it be repeated:

The demagogue who would revive the rancors and the passions of last summer's prohibition fight that he may, camp-follower-like, fatten on the spoils of the political warfare is no patriot but is rather a menace to the welfare of the state. He should be buried so deep beneath an avalanche of ballots as to be forever relegated to political oblivion!

The present Republican scrap is causing many an ambition to be a Democratic postmaster to sprout in the elysian fields of a militant Democracy's hopes!—Hondo Anvil Herald. Ambition to hold public office—to fasten one's molar upon the public teat—like hope, springs eternal in the Democratic breast. But, alas! how seldom is the ambition or the hope realized? No post-offices next year for the depraved Democracy! Colonel Roosevelt is not of that goody-goody sect who believes in selling his friends to reward his enemies.—The Texas Republic.

Uncle Mose needn't crow so lustily about it. There never was a time when we would have traded our prospects for yellow-legged chicken pie afforded by our flock of Barred Plymouth Rocks for any politician's prospects for pie!

The International Harvester Co. thrasher, recently purchased by F. J. Leinweber, is doing good work and will be busy for some time threshing the enormous oat crop of this section. We visited the machine with Mr. P. Jungman out on his farm Wednesday morning and found every thing moving with clock-work regularity, turning out 210 bushels of oats an hour.

The Presbyterian Meeting continues with services both morning and at night at the Christian Church and considerable interest is being manifested. Rev. Matthews is preaching some strong sermons. Tomorrow and to-morrow night the services will be transferred from the Christian to the Methodist Church in order to have more room to accommodate the large Sunday crowd. The public is invited to attend all of the services.

At the annual election of officers of Hondo City Lodge No. 756, A. F. & A. M., held at the hall Saturday night H. H. Crow was elected Worshipful Master; Geo. W. Cameron, Senior Warden; Ira Hurt, Junior Warden; Isaac Wilson, Treasurer; E. A. Parsons, Tiler; and Fletcher Davis, Secretary. These officers and the appointive ones will be publicly installed on June 24th, at which time the fraternity will enjoy a basket picnic at some convenient grove near town.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Edith Maitland, a frank, free and unspooled Philadelphia girl, is taken to the Colorado mountains by her uncle, Robert Maitland. James Armstrong, Maitland's protégé, falls in love with her.

CHAPTER II.—His persistent wooing of the girl, but she hesitates, and Armstrong goes on business without a definite answer.

CHAPTER III.—Edith hears the story of the girl, but she hesitates, and Armstrong goes on business without a definite answer.

CHAPTER IV.—Kirkby, the old guide, tells the story, gives Edith a package of letters which he says were found on the dead woman's body. She reads the letters and at Kirkby's request keeps them.

CHAPTER V.—While Edith is bathing in the river in fancied solitude, a big bear appears on the bank and is about to charge into the water to attack the girl when a shot rings out and the animal is killed by a strange man.

CHAPTER VI.—Edith is caught in a storm which wipes out her party's camp. She is dashed upon the rocks and injured. The strange man who shot the bear finds her unconscious and carries her to shelter.

CHAPTER VII.—Members of the camp-party realizing that Edith is lost in the storm institute a frantic search for the missing girl.

CHAPTER VIII.—No trace of her is found, and word is telegraphed to her father. James Armstrong is asking the guide for Edith's hand when the telegram arrives expressing the belief that the girl is dead. Armstrong says he will find her, and Maitland agrees to their marriage if he succeeds.

CHAPTER IX.—Edith regains consciousness in the hut of the man who had rescued her from the bear, and he shows her foot which had been severely injured.

CHAPTER X.—The girl spends a fairly comfortable night, but her host in the morning is a restless one as he lives over her that are gone. He has some secret in his life.

CHAPTER XI.—Morning finds Edith recovered and ready for the substantial breakfast the man has prepared for her.

CHAPTER XII.—Her rescuer goes in search of Edith's party, but returns at midnight alone and unsuccessful. In his absence she discovers books which show him to be a man of education.

CHAPTER XIII.—Edith finds that she must remain in the mountains until her father is better and the mountain trails passable, or permit her companion to leave her alone for a week while he goes in search of help. She decides to have him remain with her.

CHAPTER XIV.—A whole month passes before Edith's foot is thoroughly well and in the meantime she discovers that the man is in love with the stranger and that man who intrudes himself as possible as possible on her notice.

CHAPTER XV.—The man comes to a realization of his love for her, but naturally in that strange solitude the relation of the girl and her rescuer become accidental and strained.

CHAPTER XVI.—The stranger tells of a wife he had who is dead, and says he is sworn to ever cherish her memory by living in solitude. He and Edith, however, confess their love for each other. She learns that he is the man who killed his wife in the mountain.

CHAPTER XVII.—Edith discovers the writer of the letters to Newbold's wife to have been James Armstrong. Newbold decides to start to the settlement for help.

CHAPTER XVIII.—The man is racked by the belief that he is unfaithful to his wife's memory, and Edith is tempted to tell him of the letters in her possession.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Strength of the Weak.

Although Edith Maitland had spoken bravely enough while he was there, when she was alone her heart sank into the depths as she contemplated the dreadful and unsolvable dilemma to which these two lovers found themselves so unwittingly and inextricably involved. It was indeed a curious and bewildering situation. Passionate adoration for the other rose in each breast like the surging tide of a mighty sea, and like that tide upon the shore it broke upon conventions, ideas, ideals and obligations intangible to the naked eye, but as real as those iron coasts that have withstood the waves' assaults since the world's morning.

The man had shaped his life upon a mistake. He believed absolutely in the unquestioned devotion of a woman to whom he had been forced to mete out death in an unprecedented and terrible manner. His unwillingness to derogate by his own conduct from the standard of devotion which he believed had inhabited his wife's bosom, made it impossible for him to allow the real love that had come into his heart for this new woman to have free course; honor, pride and self-respect scourged him just in proportion to his passion for Edith Maitland.

The more he loved her, the more ashamed he was. By a curious combination of circumstances, Edith Maitland knew the truth; she knew that from one point of view the woman had been entirely unworthy the reverence in which her husband held her memory. She knew that his wife had not loved him at all, that her whole heart had been given to another man, that was Newbold had mistaken for a passionate desire for his society because there was no satisfaction in life for the wife away from him, was due to a fear lest without his protection she should be unable to resist the appeal of the other man which her heart seconded so powerfully. If it were only that Newbold would not be false to the obligation of the other woman's devotion, Edith might have solved the problem in a moment.

It was not so simple, however. The fact that Newbold cherished this memory, the fact that this other woman had fought so desperately, had tried so hard not to give way, entitled her to Edith Maitland's admiration and demanded her highest consideration as well. Chance, or Providence, had put her in possession of this woman's secret. It was as if she had been caught inadvertently eavesdropping. She could not in honor make use of what she had overheard, as it were; she could not blacken the other woman's memory, she could not enlighten this man at the expense of his dead wife's reputation.

Although she longed for him as much as he longed for her, although her love for him amazed her by its depth and intensity, even to bring her happiness, commensurate with her feeling, she could not betray her dead sister. The imposts of honor, how hard they are to sustain when they conflict with love and longing.

Edith Maitland was naturally not a little thrown off her balance by the situation and the power that was hers. What she could not do herself she could not allow anyone else to do. The obligation upon her must be extended to others. Old Kirkby had no right to the woman's secret any more than she; he must be silenced. Armstrong, the only other being who was privy to the truth, must be silenced too.

One thing at least arose out of the sea of trouble in a tangible way; she was done with Armstrong. Even if she had not loved Newbold that she could scarcely give a thought to any other man being, she was done with Armstrong.

A singular situation! Armstrong had loved another woman, so had Newbold; and the latter had even married this other woman, yet she was quite willing to forgive Newbold, she made every excuse for him, she made none for Armstrong. She was an eminently sane, just person, yet as she thought of the situation her anger against Armstrong grew hotter and hotter. It was a safety valve to her feelings, although she did not realize it. After all, Armstrong's actions rendered her a certain service; if she could get over the objection in her soul, if she could ever satisfy her sense of honor and duty and obligation, she could settle the question at once. She had only to show the letters to Newbold and to say: "These were written by the man of the picture; it was he, and not you, your wife loved," and Newbold would take her to his heart instantly.

These thoughts were not without a certain comfort to her. All the compensation of self sacrifice is in its realization. That she could and did not somehow ennoble her love for him. Even women are alloyed with base metal. In the powerful and universal appeal of this man to her, she rejoiced at whatever was of the soul, rather than of the body. To possess power, to refrain from using it in obedience to some higher law, is perhaps to pay oneself the most flattering of compliments. There was a satisfaction to her soul in this which was yet denied him.

Her action was quite different from his. She was putting away happiness which she might have had in compliance with a higher law than that which bids humanity enjoy. In his case, it was otherwise; he had no consciousness that he was a victim of misplaced trust, of misinterpreted action. He thought the woman for whom he was putting away happiness was almost as worthy, if infinitely less desirable, as the woman whom he now loved.

Every sting of outrage, every feeling of shame, every fear of disloyalty, scourged him. She could glory in it; he was ashamed, humiliated, broken. She heard him savagely walking up and down the other room, restlessly impelled by the same Eryines which of old scourged Orestes; the violator of the laws of moral being drove him on. These malign Eumenides held him in their hands. He was bound and helpless, rage as he might in one moment, pray as he did in another, no light came into the whirling darkness of his torn, tempest tossed, driven soul. The irresistible impulse and the immovable body the philosophers puzzled over were exemplified in him. Whilst he almost hated the new woman, whilst he almost loved the old, yet that he did neither the one thing nor the other absolutely was significant.

Indeed he knew that he was glad Edith Maitland had come into his life. No life is complete until it is touched by that divine fire which for lack of another name we call love. Because we can experience that sensation we are said to be made in God's image. The image is blurred as the animal predominates, it is clearer as the spiritual has the ascendancy.

The man raved in his mind. White faced, stern, he walked up and down he tossed his arms about him, he stopped, his eyes closed, he threw his hands up toward God, his heart cried out under the lacerations of the blows inflicted upon it. No flagellant of old ever trembled beneath the body lash as he under the spiritual punishment.

He prayed that he might die at the same moment that he longed to live. He grappled blindly for solutions of the problem that would leave him with untarnished honor and undiminished self respect and fidelity, and yet give him this woman, and in vain. He strove to find a way to reconcile the past with the present, realizing as he did so the futility of such a proposition. One or the other must be supreme, he must inexorably hold to his ideas and his ideals, or he must inevitably take the woman.

How frightful was the battle that raged within his bosom! Sometimes in his despair he thought that he would have been glad if he and she had gone down together in the dark waters before all this came upon him. The floods of which the heavens had emptied themselves had borne her to him. Oh if they had only swept him out of life with its trouble, its trials, its anxieties, its obligations, its impossibilities. If they had gone together! And then he knew that he was glad even for the torture, because he had seen her, because he had loved her, and because she had loved him.

He marvelled at himself curiously, and in a detached way. There was a woman who loved him, who had confessed it boldly and innocently, there was none to say him nay. The woman who stood between had been dead five years. The world knew nothing, cared nothing; they could go out together, he could take her, she would come. On the impulse he turned and ran to the door and beat upon it. Her voice bade him enter, and he came in.

Her heart yearned to him. She was shocked, appalled at the torture she saw upon his face. Had he been laid upon the rack, and every joint pulled from its sockets, he could not have been more white and agonized.

"I give up," he cried. "What are honor and self respect to me? I want you. I have put the past behind. You love me, and I, I am yours with every fiber of my being. Great God! Let us cast aside these foolish quixotic scruples that have kept us apart. If a man's thoughts declare his guilt, I am already disloyal to the other woman; deeply, entirely so. I have betrayed her, I have abandoned her. Let me have some reward for what I have gone through. You love me; come to me."

"No," answered the woman, and no task ever laid upon her had been harder than that. "I do love you. I will not deny it. Every part of me responds to your appeal. I should be so happy that I cannot even think of it, if I could put my hand in your own, if I inherit the earth! Yes, that was true. She knew it now, if never before, and so did he.

Slowly the man released her. She did not even then draw away from him. She stood with her hand still on his breast. She could feel the beating of his heart beneath her fingers.

"I am right," she said softly. "It kills me to deny you anything. My hearts yearns toward you. Why should I deny it? It is my glory, not my shame."

"There is nothing above love like ours," he pleaded, wondering what marvelous mastery she exercised that she stopped him by a hand's touch, a whispered word, a faith.

"No; love is life, love is God, but even God himself is under obligations of righteousness. For me to come to you now, to marry you now, to be your wife, would be unholy. There would not be that perfect confidence between us that must endure in that revelation. Your honor and mine, your self respect and mine, would interpose. If I can't have you with a clear conscience, if you can't come to me in the same way, we are better apart. Although it kills me, although I live without you seems nothing, I would rather not live it, we are better apart. I can't be your wife until—"

"Until what and until when?" demanded Newbold.

"I don't know," said the woman, "but I believe that somewhere, somehow, we shall find a way out of our difficulty. There is a way," she said a little incautiously. "I know it."

"Show it to me."

"No, I cannot."

"What prevents?"

"The same thing which prevents you: honor, loyalty."

"To a man?"

"To a woman."

"I do not understand."

"No, but you will some day." She smiled at him. "See," she said, "through my tears I can smile at you, though my heart is breaking. I know that in God's good time this will work itself out."

"I can't wait for God. I want you now," persisted the other.

"Hush, don't say that," answered the woman, for a moment laying her hand on his lips. "But I forgive you. I know how you suffer."

The man could say nothing, do nothing. He stared at her a moment and his hand went to his throat as if he were choking.

"Unworthy," he said hoarsely, "unworthy of the past, unworthy of the present, unworthy of the future. May God forgive me, I never can."

"He will forgive you, never fear," answered Edith gently.

"And you?" asked her lover. "I have ruined your life."

"No, you have ennobled it. Let nothing ever make you forget that. Wherever you are and whatever you do, and whatever you may have been, I love you, and I shall love you to the end. Now you must go, it is so late, I can't stand any more. I throw myself on your mercy again, I grow weaker and weaker before you; as you are a man, as you are stronger, save me from myself. If you were to take me again in your arms," she went on steadily, "I know not how I could drive you back. For God's sake, if you love me—"

That was the hardest thing he had ever done, to turn and go out of the room, out of her sight, and leave her standing there with eyes shining, with pulses throbbing, with breath coming fast, with bosom panting. Once more, and at a touch she might have yielded!

There is one medicine that every family should be provided with, especially during the summer months; viz: Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed. It costs but a quarter. Can you afford to be without it? For sale by All Dealers

If these spring days fail to make you want to grab your rod and tackle-box it is a sure sign that you are either growing old or growing stale.

Whooping cough is not dangerous when the cough is kept loose and expectation easy by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has been used in many epidemics of this disease with perfect success. For sale by All Dealers.

Summer is approaching, but it will produce no "closed for the summer vacation" sign on Satan's workshop.

It will take more than millions to compensate for manhood lost when the supreme test comes.

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.
Any remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.
The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and nervous debility is the result.

Don't Suffer!

"I had been troubled, a little, for nearly 7 years," writes Mrs. L. Fincher, in a letter from Peavy, Ala., "but I was not taken down, until March, when I went to bed and had to have a doctor. He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

You may wonder why Cardui is so successful, after other remedies have failed. The answer is that Cardui is successful, because it is composed of scientific ingredients, that act curatively on the womanly system. It is a medicine for women, and for women only. It builds, strengthens, and restores weak and ailing women, to health and happiness.

If you suffer like Mrs. Fincher did, take Cardui. It will surely do for you, what it did for her. At all druggists.
